

Those darn dram laws bug barkeeps

"Dram laws." The very mention brings on raised eyebrows and gasps of exasperation from valley tavern keepers.

The once familiar, "Aw, come on, barkeep. Just one more for the road," is liable to get a quick, personal tour of the kitchen area in the hop-skip-and-jump competition toward the parking lot as bartenders and restaurateurs guard their livelihood and expensive liquor licenses from what some call the intemperate actions of the State Supreme Court.

And all because some saloon keepers have been successfully sued in the past when their customers, after leaving the premises precipitously plastered, have careened off someone on the way home.

Under a now famous 1972 State Supreme Court decision, bars and the bartenders who served the drinks are responsible for their customers after they've left the lounge.

The ruling involved a tavern in Placer County and a man who had an accident after leaving the establishment. The court awarded damages to the man in a lawsuit against the bar.

In a recent Los Angeles decision, actor James Stacey was awarded $1.9 million for loss of an arm and a leg when his motorcycle was hit by a drunk driver. Stacey's passenger was killed and the victim's estate received an additional $400,000. All from the bar that served the fateful drinks to the errant driver. The motorist was found guilty of felony manslaughter and drunk driving and sentenced to state prison.

"I've seen a lot of my cohorts go down the tubes," said the Granada Bowl's Dennis Fannucci. "I don't think it's right."

His insurance premiums have shot up some 60 per cent in the last four years, especially for "dram coverage," and he says he wouldn't operate without it.

"How in hell can I stay in business without it. I can't always tell if somebody who walks in the bar is too drunk to have another drink. It's totally unfair."

The Pleasanton Hotel's Terry Huff is philosophical about the court's decision, as well as a subsequent rendering that holds employers responsible for the follow through from office parties.

"people are kind of suit happy," he says, and the court's decision opened up "a whole can of worms."

He would go for some sort of responsibility for negligence, but there is no state law to cover bars and

Rocky road

The railbirds were out in force yesterday at the races in the Pleasanton Library, only this time it was pet rocks, not horses, who were snorting down to the finish line at breakneck speed. Nearly 70 children entered their pet rocks in a variety of games and races and a similar event was held at the Dublin Library in the morning. A couple of traveling pet rocks who made the summer circuit also put in an appearance.

Kids see rolling stones

PLEASANTON — Maybe a lot of people have been called Ben Hur, but the first rock in history to adopt that name performed with scores of other rocks in a weird chariot race yesterday.

The chariot races were down at the Pleasanton Library, which is just the place you would expect to have a good, riproaring chariot race. After all, the original Ben Hur was in a book, and if he is going to come alive or pass his spirit down to a rock, the library is the place for the incarnation to happen.

This Ben Hur was one of 70 rocks entered by their owners in the various games comprising the First International Rock Festival at the Pleasanton Library.

No loud music at this rock festival, just plenty of good clean fun with your basic segment of earth. Some of the kids pulled rocks on sleds with strings attached and Children's Library Librarian Elizabeth Overmyer reported that the heavier rocks, weighing in at four ounces, were at a distinct disadvantage in this one.

Some of the rock owners painted their entries for the wild rock category, where they were placed in cages for the safety of all concerned.

Others brought their trained rocks, pets who showed the rigors and discipline of many long hours in obedience school. They went through the paces of sitting up, heeling, and playing dead without a whimper.

The rock races showed spirited activity and the big event of the day was the rock walk. Here owners paraded their rocks around on a big checkerboard and tried not to get caught on the poison square when the music stopped.

The demonstration chariot races were another big event, the one where Mr. Hur really shone. It seems he has been on the pet rock circuit all summer, making appearances at various Alameda County libraries, including Dublin yesterday morning. (Ben and two other trouper on the county-wide circuit layed over for lunch in Dublin, then visited Pleasanton and its nearly 70 native rocks in the afternoon).

The Pleasanton Library had its own entry in the wild rock category. Seems that he, she or it was so wild that it crashed right through the library's window one night a couple of months ago. Fortunately the staff at the library collectively has a big heart and the rock was an immediate hit.

Bowling lanes for Dublin by next January

The official ground-breaking was held yesterday for a 40 lane bowling center at the corner of Sierra Lane and Dougherty Road adjacent to K-Mart in Dublin. It will be called Amador Valley Lanes.

Robert Feuchter, president of American Recreation Centers, Inc., announced that the new $1.4 million family recreation center will open next January.

Ownership of the property will be under a partnership made up of A.R.C. and Bernal Investment, Inc. but A.R.C. will operate the facility; the 20th unit in their chain, the third in Alameda County.

The new center will be equipped with the Brunswick Astrolane automatic pinsetters, ball returns and telescopes. The center will feature an extra large "playland" for bowlers' children including a crib room for infants. Food service and a cocktail lounge are also incorporated into the building design.

Architect for the facility is Associated Professions, Inc. of Livermore.

Construction and mortgage financing were arranged by AMFAC Mortgage Corporation. Northwestern National Life Insurance Company will provide the long term mortgage.

Mori pushes aid for refugees

Assemblyman Floyd Mori will be lobbying Democratic Party Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter to give thousands of Southeast Asian refugees permanent alien status if he is elected President.

Mori is a member of the Asian Caucus, a national lobbying group of Asian-American elected officials organized recently by San Jose Congressman Norm Mineta. Mori, a Democrat, is lobbying Carter on behalf of the caucus.

The Asian Caucus wants to see Senate Bill 2313 passed and signed by the President. The bill currently is bottled up in the Senate's Committee on Naturalization and Immigration.

If Carter is chosen President in November, it's likely he would have more clout with a Democratic Congress and be able to speed up the bill, according to Karen Kinney, Mori's administrative aide in his Pleasanton office.

"The bill was sponsored by Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania," said Kinney. "Most of the camps were in Pennsylvania, Florida and California and most of the refugees settled in those states. The bill to change their status is not going anywhere because only Congressmen from those three states are interested in the bill."

The refugees are in America on a Presidential parole alien status. Technically it means they are here only temporarily, but practically speaking, none of them plan to return to their native countries so they should be changed to "resident alien" status, said Kinney.

After they are on resident alien status for one year, they can pay resident tuition at state universities, for example, Kinney said about the desirability of the proposed change in their status. The state government could modify tuition conditions for these aliens and get the same effect, but the subsidy would come out of state coffers, she said.

"It's a federal problem and we think the federal government should take responsibility for it," said Kinney.

Alameda County has more than 500 Southeast Asian refugees and more are coming in from Cambodia and Thailand, said Kinney.

President Ford may be a supporter of Scott's bill, but he has not pushed it, said Kinney.

Chrysler dealership proposed

DUBLIN — The valley's only Chrysler auto dealership — complete with service department and recreational vehicles sales — will open here later this year if county supervisors approve a proposed zoning change.

Robert Woolverton and Frank Gutierrez, partners in Dublin's Crown Chevrolet, will open Amador Chrysler-Dodge on 1.9 acres of Scarlett Court near Dougherty Road, Gutierrez said.

Woolverton will operate the new dealership, while Gutierrez runs the Chevrolet center.

Construction will take about two months, Gutierrez said, adding the cars already have been ordered.

He feels another dealership in the area will draw more prospective car buyers to Dublin, and that the competition will be good for business.

County supervisors are set to hear the zoning change request at their Aug. 5 meeting. The land currently is zoned for light industrial use, and the dealership requires a general commercial designation.

Supervisors also will hear the D'Domenico request to rezone 50.5 acres off Foothill Road from agricultural to single family homesites on minimum 1 1/2 acre plots.

The prospective purchaser wants to put only one house on the acreage just north of Santos Ranch Road, said a county planning department official, but wants the adjoining acreage zoned residential.

Sewer services currently are not available and the home will have to use a septic tank.

Post office dream fades — cost too high

PLEASANTON — The post office soon to be vacated by the postal authorities once figured in the city government's plans as a possible addition to the civic center, but it appears gone by the boards now.

That was the word yesterday from city officials, who stated they took a hard look at the building a year ago when it was up for sale, but found the asking price too steep.

Assistant to the City Manager Jim Walker said that the police department, which is bulging the seams now on Main and Division streets, checked it out a year ago.

The combination of the asking price and extensive alterations to make it suitable for police work were prohibitive, said Walker.

"For almost the same money, you could build the police a new building, designed better for their needs than adapting the building," said Walker. "The post office building is little more than a shell and it would take a lot of adaptation to make it suitable for the offices for the police."

He added there appears to be nothing in town adaptable for the police and a new building will have to be built for them at the existing civic center as envisioned in the general plan for that area. However, the current financial state of the city implies it will be quite some time before the police will be in that new building, said Walker.

Councilman Frank Brandes, who with Councilman Ken Mercer wishes the city would give up its $14,000 a year lease in the current city council chambers, said he talked to City Manager Bill Edgar about acquiring the building. But he was told the same thing Walker mentioned — it's too expensive to adapt.

Brandes hasn't thought about it since, but talking over the situation yesterday with a reporter, he said he'd rather pay $14,000 toward the city's own building than to continue the lease at the current building on 30 W. Angela St.

One thing that could be done, if finances permitted, would be to move the police to the post office and have the city council meet in the old city hall building now used as the police station. It would take some alterations to that building to create a large meeting room, but there would be the advantage of meeting at an historic spot.

"There's also parking behind that building and more in the municipal lot nearby," said Brandes. "I don't know the costs involved though, both in altering the old building and adapting the post office. But in any case, when the police department does move out of that building, I'd like to see it preserved for its historical value. It would make a good museum."

Councilman William Herlihy had similar thoughts about the old city hall. He thinks a museum is a natural and he wouldn't rule out its desirability as a community meeting spot.

Herlihy recalled that when he came here in 1964 all city employees were housed in that small building and the city council met in the building's largest room. Over the next few years, the council moved to the Women's Club Building on Vineyard Avenue and then to Valley View School and finally to the W. Angela St. site.

Herlihy agrees with the staff that the finances aren't feasible to buy the post office building. It's too bad because the police need adequate space, he said. "They are working under adverse conditions," said Herlihy.

"But the city has some severe financial constraints. I guess in our current budget, we don't see the ability to make such a move," said Herlihy.

Long way to Murray pact, teachers say

DUBLIN — Murray teachers and school board are still far from a salary settlement, following a negotiating session yesterday afternoon.

Murray Teachers Association president Bob Kroetch said, "We're not panicking yet," but the school board just offered them an unacceptable four-tenths of one per cent raise. The teachers are asking for a 9.75 per cent cost-of-living increase.

Regina Paulus representing MTA met with Murray's $70-an-hour professional negotiator, Keith Breon, and reported near accord on the school calendar although no agreement on paychecks. The district offered an almost acceptable 181-day school year, including 177 teaching days and four work days which the students would have off. The state requires 175 teaching days and does not require teacher work days.

Besides the tiny raise, the district is offering to maintain teachers' current level of fringe benefits, which have gone up 1.5 per cent in cost this year. The total, as the district sees it, is a 1.9 per cent increase which would cost almost $100,000 out of their $8 million budget.

The teachers' contention is that Murray underpaid their teachers in recent years and overestimated their operating expenses, leaving them with a very healthy $528,000 beginning balance for the coming year.

"It's kind of distressing to me knowing things are tight for everyone and they have a chance to make up to the teachers for past years' raises which were far below cost of living — yet, they refuse to do it," the MTA president said yesterday.

They plan to meet again over the bargaining table on Aug. 18 to try to come to closer agreement before the new school year starts.

Claustrophobic vandal released with citation

LIVERMORE — A man who called police to his home so they would imprison him for breaking a window later balked at the thought of being enclosed in a small cell and so was let off with a citation.

According to reports, Gary James Wallace, 19, called police to his Western Avenue about 7:30 Sunday night. When asked why he wanted police assistance, Wallace allegedly replied, "I broke the window at the Shell Station," pointing towards Paul Marsh's station on East Stanley Boulevard.

Officer Laurence Anderson Jr. told Wallace to say no more while his partner drove to the site and confirmed that a 1x3-foot window at the station office had indeed been broken out.

Wallace allegedly told officers he would refuse to pay for the damage and would continue to break windows unless he was arrested. He would give no reason for wanting to be imprisoned, officers reported.

Anderson explained that he would issue a citation and release him only if Wallace promised to go inside his home and stay there. The suspect refused, saying he would continue to break windows, and so was arrested.

Once at the station, it became apparent that Wallace had claustrophobia and didn't want to be locked in a cell. He reportedly agreed to go home with the citation as long as he was not jailed.

Police reported that Wallace was a former employee of the service station. The suspect told police he broke the window because he had "nothing else to do."

He was released after a citation for malicious mischief was issued.

CB and stereo gear taken from van in Dublin

DUBLIN — A van parked on Dublin Boulevard Monday evening was burglarized of $270 in citizen band and stereo equipment, police reported yesterday.

James B. Wiley of Hummingbird Lane in Livermore told sheriff's deputies that he parked his Dodge van on Dublin Boulevard about 5:30 Monday evening, and returned at 8 p.m. to discover the burglary. Deputies said burglars used a pry tool to force open the driver's side wing window to gain entrance.

Missing items include a Pace brand 23-channel CB radio worth $200, and a stereo tape deck valued at $70. There are no clues in the theft.

Vandals punch out lights at North Livermore and Portola

LIVERMORE — Vandals smashed six signal lights at the intersection of North Livermore and Portola avenues recently, police reported.

An electrician told police that one amber, one left arrow, a "Walk - Don't Walk" and three green signal lights were broken with rocks. Damage was estimated at $500. Police have no suspects in the attack.

Rites for Henry Thursday

An outpouring of community tribute is anticipated for the final rites on Thursday honoring Maitland R. Henry. Editor and publisher of "The Livermore Herald" newspaper for some 44 years, Mr. Henry had been retired from active newspapering since 1965. He passed away on Monday following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday from the Callaghan Mortuary Chapel. Friends are also invited to the chapel from 7 until 9 p.m. on Wednesday.

Mr. Henry came to Livermore in 1899 when his father, Arthur L. Henry, purchased the Livermore Herald. A product of Livermore schools, Maitland Henry served in the U.S. Army during World War I. He became publisher of the "Herald" in 1921 on the death of his father.

He and his wife, Eva, were identified with a number of community projects and programs. He held numerous offices including those with the Livermore Lions, Rotary, Stockmen's Rodeo Association, Chamber of Commerce and a trustee on the Livermore High School Board.

He was an avid historian and was instrumental in launching much of today's historical interest in the community and the Valley. The Maitland R. Henry school on Alameda Drive was named in his honor.

Mr. Henry is survived by two sons, Arthur L. of Livermore and Robert R. of Sunnyvale; one daughter, Mrs. Nancy Lyons of Davis; a brother, Alan Henry of Pleasanton; two sisters, Miss Lois Henry of Livermore and Mrs. Alma Rasmussen of Pleasanton; and four grandchildren. Contributions in his memory to the Valley Memorial Hospital or the American Cancer Society are invited.

Livermore license deadline Saturday

LIVERMORE — The City of Livermore issued a reminder to all owners of business yesterday: the deadline to renew business licenses is Saturday, July 31.

Finance Director George Nolan said that applications for renewal were mailed out to all Livermore businesses at the end of June.

Anyone doing business in Livermore who has not received the application, or who has questions about it, should contact the City of Livermore Finance Department at City Hall.

All applications must be postmarked not later than Saturday, July 31.

Penalty for failing to file an application will be levied at 10 per cent per month. The minimum penalty is $25.

To avoid the penalty, Nolan urged all businesses to file the application no later than Saturday.

New First Street location for Sears

Cal 4-H conference may draw more than 1,000 kids to Davis

DAVIS — "4-H '76 Spirit of Tomorrow" will be the theme for the more than 1,000 California 4-H youths participating in the annual State 4-H Leadership Conference on the University of California campus at Davis August 2 to 6.

This event is one of two held each summer for 4-H members in California; the other being scheduled for the University's Santa Barbara campus August 16 to 20.

Four-Hers from the Oregon border to the counties of Monterey, Kings and Fresno in the south will be involved in the conference at Davis. The southern conference will include 4-H members from Mono, Tulare, Kern and San Luis Obispo counties, south to the Mexican border, also Napa County.

Programs for both conferences will be similar, with project learning (teaching and doing sessions), a dress revue, mini-sessions, Community Pride planning, an all-conference barbecue, campus tours and the conference dance.

The varied mini-sessions at the Davis parley will include techniques of Oriental cooking, photography tricks, bread - dough art, how 4-H works in Canada and the ABC's of electing your favorite candidate.

The Davis program begins with registration, campus tours and rap sessions Monday. The opening assembly, highlighted by the 1976 Diamond Star report, will be at 8 p.m. From the opening ceremonies to the closing breakfast Aug. 6, "We expect the meetings to be action-packed and enjoyable to all participants," said Harry Miller, conference chairman and coordinator for the northern California leadership conference.

Birds of the bay talk in August

Are you a bird lover? There are hundreds of varieties of birds in the Valley — although most people only recognize a few and are at a loss when it comes to attracting them into their backyards.

Anyone willing to trek to Coyote Hills Regional Park in Fremont on Sunday, Aug. 22, will be treated to an unusual talk on Bay Area birds.

Coyote Hills naturalist Jan Southworth will show slides of wild birds who visited her home on Mountain Boulevard, Oakland. She'll explain their varied lifestyles and give pointers on how to attract them to your home.

Her talk begins at 2 p.m. in the Coyote Hills visitors' center. It will be one of a series of lively lectures on nature, planned for 2 p.m. each Sunday in August.

The complete schedule: — Aug. 1: "Sun, Wind and Water" Says naturalist Norm Kidder, "Maybe only mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the noonday sun, but most plants are stuck with it!" Join him for a walk to see how plants are coping with this dry summer.

— Aug. 8: "Shall the Bay Live?" Film on the value and beauty of San Francisco Bay habitats, followed by a walk in Bay marshes at the park with Jan Southworth.

— Aug. 15: "Slimy or Shiny." "Let's get rid of those old stories about snakes and lizards that aren't true," advises naturalist Paul Ferreira, who will take nature walkers in the field to prove his contentions.

— Aug. 22: Jan Southworth's discussion on birds.

— Aug. 29: "Last Days of the Dolphin?" Naturalist

Ferreira suggests that parkgoers planning to see this film about the intelligent dolphin to not bring tuna sandwiches. This film is produced by the Environmental Defense Fund.

For information on these and other Park District naturalist programs in East Bay Regional Parks, phone the center at 471-4967.

SRV cityhood unit slates potluck dinner

Maid pageant first

Contra Costa fair tonight

ANTIOCH — The Contra Costa County Fair will bounce onto the boardwalk this evening when 20 "lovely ladies in bathing suits" open the the ceremonies with their quest for title of County Maid.

The five-day fete features top celebrities, chilling carnival rides, floriculture displays, refreshing gardens, arts and crafts and hobbies.

Fair gates open at 6 p.m., with the Maid Pageant getting under way at 8:30.

This year's fair features a helicopter ride high above the fairgrounds and surrounding Antioch and delta area.

Fair organizers promise "one of the most captivating" entertainment escapades in years. Miss Universe emcee Ed Hennessy, making his third appearance at the fair, will host the festivities.

Tony Urbano's Mari-

nettes perform daily along with the Happytime Circus.

The Mugglestons, a family of youngsters from 11- to 21-years-old, perform Wednesday and Thursday night. Their repertoire includes "a touch of Olivia Newton-John," the '50s rock'n roll and a salute to the Bicentennial. They sing and dance with excursions into impersonations and comedy.

Willie Tyler the ventriloquist and his "Lester" join the Mugglestons.

Comedians Skiles and Henderson appear Friday and Saturday night.

Local bands Pirate Elite, Thrust, Flat Nasty and Tight Squeeze headline the south gate every night at 9 o'clock.

The fair also features a two-day professional rodeo Friday and Saturday night.

Local Ropers amateur competition battles for supremacy before the bravery versus brawn rodeo begins. The three top finishers and the winning team receive trophies and buckles.

For those who missed horse racing at the Alameda County Fair, Friday's feature is the "Diaper Derby" at 11:30 a.m.

Babies race in groups of 10 across a 10-foot carpet. "Cheering is encouraged," note fair officials.

The afternoons entertainment includes the George Minami Dancers and the 1976 Oakland Raiders.

Sunday, when the fair runs from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., is Senior Citizens' and Mexican - American Day.

Some top Mexican bands, including the Mariachis Guachinango with Ricardo La Farga and Frank Meda are featured along with the Folkloric Dancers and the La Organizacion.

The fair concludes with auto racing at 8 p.m.

Gate admission is $2 for adults and 50-cents for children under 12. Children five and under will be admitted free.

Food stamp limits up

You may not have been eligible for food stamps a month ago, but maybe you are today.

The county Social Services Agency has just raised the income allowable for food stamps, since the cost of living has jumped considerably this year.

Food stamp allotments are updated in July and January, while welfare payments are updated once a year, in July, to reflect the cost of living. The maximum net income for a one-person household receiving food stamps increased from $215 to $245. For a two-person household, the increase was from $307 to $322.

The Valley's center for applying for food stamps and welfare is in the Good Samaritan Center, 1779 Barcelona Ave., telephone 455-0747.

Net income standards for larger households have not changed — ranging from $433 for a three-person household to $993 for eight people. An additional $127 per month is allowed for each person beyond eight.

Similarly, welfare grants have gone up 9 per cent since last year. A family of four now receives $379 a month, for example.

The net result is that most families on welfare will be paying more than ever for their food stamps. Alameda County now assists about 23,000 welfare families and 26,000 food stamp households.

$4.1 million BART boon for 3rd rail, night trains

Alameda County Bureau OAKLAND — A $4.1 million federal grant destined for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's coffers will help fund the system's night service and start construction on a third rail that "will offer additional flexibility" in expanding service, a BART spokesman has said.

The two Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) grants include $3.7 million in capital improvements and $400,000 for "operating assistance."

Most of the capital expenditure will go toward the first phase of engineering for an additional track through downtown Oakland. The "third track" will be built in an already completed tunnel stretching from the MacArthur Station through the Oakland "Y".

"When completed, this new section will offer additional flexibility and greatly assist us in providing improved and expanded service," said BART General Manager Frank Herlinger.

The operating funds will help offset the district deficit run up through extended night service.

State Transit Development Act (TDA) funds, applied for through the Bay Area-wide Metropolitan Transportation Commission, will provide the local matching share for the capital improvements projects.

Welcoming their Japanese visitors to Dublin: Bill Wilson greets tour escort Nosuhiro Shirmomura, while Margaret Wilson lays a California hug on Kumiko Sonobe.

'Homestay' educational program

Valleyites host Japanese students

Nineteen Japanese students will be visiting local families for the next few weeks as part of the "Homestay" student educational program.

Host families greeted their visitors Sunday at Dublin High. Until Aug. 19, the families will show their foreign visitors around California and will provide the youths with room and board. They receive a small stipend to help with expenses.

Hosts from Dublin include: Steve and Jerry Burns, Mark and Joan Hadley, Art and Maxine Learned, William and Connie Welch.

In Pleasanton, the students will be staying with: Joseph and Jenny Keeper, Ted and Sandy Klenk, Jan and Greg Kopsch, Gerald and June Roling, Bill and Ida Silveira, Bill and Margaret Wilson.

San Ramon hosts are: Dan and Diana Andaya, Enrique and Donna Navarro, Eugene and Ruth Scalf.

In Livermore, the visitors will be with: Mrs. Alberta Motta, Jim and Shirley Nelson, Ed and Donna Smith and Ruth Woods.

Barbara Heimowitz of Hayward (537-2066) is coordinating the program. A teacher at Dublin High, she has run the local Homestay effort for the last four years and is planning another program for early spring.

The visitors spend part of each day learning conversational English at Dublin High.

They are offered optional excursions to such Bay Area spots as Berkeley,

San Francisco, the Lawrence Livermore Lab, and an A's game in Oakland. Also coming up are trips to Yosemite next week and to Disneyland the following week.

"Homestay" is one of a number of organizations bringing foreign students to the Valley this summer for cultural exchange.

their customers. Everything follows from that court decision.

Like other barkeepers and restaurateurs, he leaves the decision on "86'ing" a customer — the traditional euphemism for "no more" — up to his bartender, who decides when someone has had too much and must be cut off.

"Nobody likes a drunk in his bar," he adds. "It's bad for business. They want to talk, or they're loud. Sometimes they get belligerent. We chase them out."

As the stronghold of Pleasanton propriety, his problems are minimal.

But how does the cocktail waitress know that one quiet guy sitting in the corner with a party of four or five is plastered, he asks rhetorically. Or that the second drink ordered by a guy who comes to the bar is for his friend who can't find the floor without falling on it?

"It's just hard to tell," he says.

The state's Alcoholic Beverage Control bureau is sympathetic, but firm. They can't, however, offer legal advice.

The courts, according to agent Ron Lockyer, apparently are filling a vacuum that the State Legislature leaves void.

Civilian attorneys and government officials who've read the court's decisions carefully think the judiciary is waiting for the proper presentation of a case that will hold the homeowner liable for his partygoers if they leave that Sunday afternoon bar-b-que too tipsy and wipe out someone on the freeway.

"The courts seem to be saying that the Legislature has failed to act," says Lockyer, and "the feeling at least is that the court's foretelling a future decision."

But he thinks the law has had "a pretty profound effect" on owners. There are no statistics to back up his feeling, but he believes owners have assumed more responsibility for the drinks and customers they serve.

The problem, he emphasizes, is the lack of a state statute. "Everything follows from that supreme court decision."

That, in turn, makes it nearly impossible to judge other, allegedly similar cases.

Since there's no state law that may be broken, it's up to the court "to weigh each case based on those certain, specific facts."

He can't speculate on hypothetical situations: The famed example put forth by several barkeepers, for instance, of the customer who imbibes too much down the street, then, after half a drink at your place, kills somebody on the way home.

Who's liable? The first bar? The second? Or both?

"The court would look at the particular facts in that case," Lockyer repeats.

"The consequences are tremendous. I'd like to think that most licensees are responsible persons and will tailor their actions accordingly," he advises.

Kidnaping suspects' trail shifts search

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) — The nationwide hunt for the Chowchilla mass kidnapers shifted to the northwest after one wanted man tried twice to cross the Canadian border and sold guns in Washington and Idaho, authorities reported Tuesday.

The FBI verified the sightings of James Schoenfeld in Spokane, Wash., on July 19 and in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, on July 20, according to Thomas Drukin, Montana-Idaho FBI agent-in-charge.

Canadian authorities reported Tuesday a second unsuccessful attempt by Schoenfeld to cross into Canada. They said Schoenfeld tried to enter from Idaho on July 18 — just three days after the kidnaping of 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver.

Border officials said Monday that Schoenfeld also tried to cross the border on July 19 from Washington. The two border crossings are about 200 miles apart. At the time of the two crossing attempts, Schoenfeld was not sought for the kidnaping.

Schoenfeld tried to make both crossings alone, and there were no reported sightings of a second wanted man, Frederick Newhall Woods.

Investigators also learned that Schoenfeld was in Reno, Nev. the day after the kidnap victims escaped from a makeshift prison.

Drukin said the Idaho and Washington sightings were around "business establishments" and that Schoenfeld pawned or sold some unspecified items at both locations.

Drukin declined to say how the sightings were confirmed.

Spokane police officer Gary Laceywell reported that a man who gave the name James Schoenfeld sold a 30-30 rifle, a .22-caliber pistol, a .38-caliber pistol, a 22-caliber rifle, a 20-gauge shotgun and 3,400 rounds of ammunition for $180 to a sporting goods store there July 19.

The salesman, Mike Miotke, said Schoenfeld told him he was returning to California. But a day later, he was in Idaho.

Coeur D'Alene pawn broker Jack Forest said Schoenfeld sold him two automatic pistols on July 20. He said the young man told him he had just returned from Canada and was traveling to California via Nevada.

Children's Hospital fights for tiny lives

Charles and Sarah Spurlock of Pleasanton, pictured with tiny daughter, Stacey, when she needed feeding through a tube into her stomach, at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Oakland.

When you have two healthy daughters whose birth weights exceeded eight pounds, it can be quite a shock to have a third born two months prematurely and weighing but four pounds, one ounce.

That's what happened to Charles and Sarah Spurlock of Pleasanton. Their baby, Stacey Lynn, was born at Valley Memorial Hospital June 18, with hyaline membrane disease, a severe respiratory problem.

On the day of her birth, Stacey was transferred to the Intensive Care Nursery at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Oakland. Doctors from

"I can't get over the nurses and doctors at Children's," exclaims Mrs. Spurlock. "They tell you everything that's going on with your baby. We're very grateful."

The existence of a Children's Hospital Medical Center is possible because of the women who founded it in 1912 and those who have continued to support it through the fund-raising efforts of auxiliary branches.

Livermore and Pleasanton residents who comprise Mulberry Branch are currently at work on their major annual fund-raiser — the 11th Annual Junior Horse Show set Saturday, Sept. 25 and Sunday, Sept. 26 at the Community Horsemen's Arena in Livermore.

The show is approved by the Pacific Horse Hunter, Jumper and Stock Association, and by the California State Horsemen's Association.

Don Burt of Portuguese Bend, Calif., will judge the English classes on Saturday Judy Kennedy of Malibu, Calif., will judge the Western classes on Sunday.

Prospective entries may write or call for information by addressing Mulberry Branch, 4329 Drake Ct., Livermore, CA 94550, telephone: 447-3239.

Mulberry Branch members are also busy with plans for a barbecue and hoedown which coincides with the horse show. The hoedown, initiated last year as an annual event, is set Saturday night, Sept. 25. Details will be announced at a later date.

lifestyle

the nursery and a paramedic made the transfer by ambulance using a special Baby Transport Unit.

Stacey has undergone closed heart surgery for closure of a duct between the heart and lungs which usually closes at or soon after birth — a common complication of hyaline membrane disease. In addition, she needed chest tubes because of a collapsed lung and phototherapy for jaundice. She was on a respirator and a high protein liquid was fed directly into her veins.

In recent weeks, Stacey has steadily improved. She now breathes room air and takes feedings by bottle. She should be going home soon to join her sisters, Sheri, 5½, and Stephanie, 3½.

Study shows why volunteers leave

A study on volunteers undertaken for Region Seven of the Veteran's Administration Hospital draws conclusions that may be of interest to any organization that relies upon volunteer assistance.

The primary purpose of the study was to determine why volunteers terminate from various hospitals and whether or not anything can be done to increase the retention rate of those volunteers who are leaving.

It has been the concern of many national leaders that the Veteran Administration Hospitals (V.A.) lose large numbers of vitally needed volunteers for reasons over which some control might be exercised.

In conducting the survey, two primary questions were examined: Why does one volunteer stay and why does one stop volunteering? Personal profiles of both active and terminated volunteers were sought to give more insight into the study topic. Input was also solicited from the directors of the volunteer program as well as from members of their advisory boards.

It was determined that the primary reasons people decide to become volunteers are to help to others and to keep busy themselves. Those conducting the study felt if this is true, the logical way to retain volunteers is to give them an opportunity to help others and to keep them busy. It was pointed out that this responsibility comes under the chief of voluntary service.

Many respondents to the questionnaires — 500 were sent to active volunteers; 158 to chief of voluntary service and 68 VAVS representatives and deputy representatives. Results were determined on the number of questionnaires returned, not distributed — indicated that they did not feel their job (carrying specimen to the lab, answering the phone, filing, etc.) was really helping anyone. Comments revealed that the volunteer was bored with the inactivity of his assignment.

The majority of the volunteers in V.A. Hospitals, both active and terminated, indicated they were satisfied with their volunteer experience.

The survey also showed that the majority of volunteers in V.A. Hospitals are over 56 years of age and that they have volunteered for less than a year. The majority of those who quit, quit within the first year.

According to volunteers as to why they terminated their services the reasons were poor health, return to employment and relocation. These same reasons were given by chiefs of voluntary service across the nation when they were questioned as to why they terminated volunteers. In some instances, lack of transportation was the reason for termination.

Results of the survey indicated that there were approximately 128 volunteers terminated per year. In view of the fact that there are three to five hundred volunteers listed on the volunteer program, this figure did not seem exceptionally high.

Recommendations to better retain volunteers and to provide a comprehensive voluntary program were given to the Hospital upon completion of the study.

Anyone interested in obtaining further information on the United Voluntary Service in the valley may contact the president of the organization, Margaret Blackstone, 846-8247 for further information.

Grand juries - Why bother?

The last word from the San Francisco Grand Jury on that "Sunol Golf Course scandal" was startling, but not unexpected:

"Although it is clearly evident that several city officials were lax in this complicated situation, the present Civil Grand Jury recommends that the matter be dropped."

It is not unlike the pronouncement that came recently from a Grand Jury sitting in Oakland and that — after weeks of examining the books and the bad habits of certain BART board members — found all kinds of wrong doing by those public officials, but nothing worthy of further legal action.

Apparently the clear evidence of error, or worse, by a servant of the people is no longer sufficient to warrant the filing of a formal complaint. At least not by Grand Juries.

Then what, pray tell, are Grand Juries for?

To earn headline space during the course of some hot probe, that's for sure. And to make sure some wanton murderer is brought before the bar of justice. But that is not the extent nor even the worst of "crimes against society" as most of us are discovering.

Public officials who are "lax" are most likely derelict in some other area of their servitude. Maybe all that the people and the press are getting is the tip of a very large iceberg. And that's where Grand Juries come in, and promptly cop out, if we are to judge those recent GJ performances.

There have been other reasons, and more startling examples, to question the value of Grand Juries ... all that time and expense, great books of "findings," followed by nothing whatsoever. Never any positive response, rarely any clear action.

From BART's free - spending board president to Sunol's troubled golf course, the crimes against public decency are evident and even flagrant; but never enough to prod a Grand Jury into action.

Maybe we should abolish the system and at least save the cash.

Campaign cash

There is a great deal of concern these days about "the influence big business exercises on the election process through elective contributions of cash."

That is a valid concern, and one we ought not to forget. But corporate cash is not the greatest threat to "free and open elections for offices and issues," it would appear.

The Fair Political Practices Commission has tallied out the dollar amounts spent by various groups, unions and corporations in the campaigns leading up to that June election. The three top spenders in that period were — California State Employees Association, California Dental Political Action Committee and the California Teachers Association operating as "The Association for Better Citizenship."

Gun Owners of California would have ranked as one of the top four spenders in California, except that $50,000 of the $114,508 raised in this state was forwarded to Gun Owners of America.

When it comes to spending cash to influence elections, "big business" and "little people" all have a way of exerting "mighty muscle."

Congressman Pete Stark

My military vote

Rep. Fortney H. (Pete) Stark, Jr.

Congressman, Ninth District
As anyone familiar with my voting record knows, I consistently vote against Pentagon budget requests that contain large pockets of waste, which most of them do. My "aye" vote on the military construction bill may come as some surprise.

Along with 269 other House members — 228 Democrats and 42 Republicans — I voted to override President Ford's veto of the $3.3 billion measure, primarily because it had a provision that would have required a year's delay in proposed cutbacks or closures of military bases, such as the Alameda Naval Air Station and Naval Air Rework Facility, which employ over 5,500 civilians.

The House vote was two more than required for the two-thirds necessary for an override. Unfortunately, the Senate failed to override, so the veto was sustained.

President Ford vetoed the bill because of the proviso which would have required the Pentagon to justify proposed closures or cutbacks and give Congress an assessment of the economic, strategic and environmental consequences of any such action. The process would span a year.

Under current procedures, the executive branch can close or drastically reduce personnel at a base without much warning, a practice that invariably causes mental and economic distress to the individuals and communities involved. A one - year moratorium would have allowed Congress to study the Defense Department's positions and make the final decision on whether closures or cutbacks should be made. The time lapse also would have given local communities an opportunity to anticipate and adjust to changes that would come with a large reduction in its work force.

Typically, the President who considers unemployment a valid method of fighting inflation, is seeking "efficiencies" at the expense of average wage earners, while ignoring the massive waste that occurs daily within the military - industrial complex. None of the big defense contractors will suffer.

I know not a single member of Congress who wants to reduce our nation's defense capabilities. I know many who believe, as I do, that individual Americans should not be sacrificed on the altar of Pentagon profligacy.

sesses more technical expertise on the subject of effluent disposal in general and the LAVWMA project in particular than does the average valley resident.

And the board is worried — with good reason — that so costly and unglamorous a project will be rejected by the voters.

Sewage is not a scintillating topic.

But in the shadow of Watergate, the LAVWMA board took the proper, indeed the only course available to them if they want to see the pipeline become a reality.

As one former LAVWMA board member warned, "It's important to take the electorate into your confidence or else public confidence in elected officials will erode."

By deciding not to amend the JPA, the LAVWMA board reaffirmed its trust in the public — or at least acknowledged the voters' unalienable right to a voice in their own future.

So now the voters will have to decide the fate of the pipeline for themselves, and face the consequences of that decision.

Stated briefly, the valley is under a mandate from the state to stop discharging its effluent down the Alameda Creek. People in Fremont don't want to drink our wastes, even if treated, and the state water board has ruled the wastewater is harmful to health.

The urgency for rectifying the situation can be

Hindsight/Foresight

Oregon pacts

Leave it to the State of Oregon to institute and practice a sound environmental idea.

You may recall it was an Oregon governor who suggested Californians visit the "Emerald Empire" but "please, please don't take root."

Tab lid soft drink cans are also verboten in Oregon. Reminds one of the parched Californian who, craving a soft drink, wheeled into a grocery, snatched a couple of "no sugar, diet" items and was 10 miles up the road before realizing they came without the convenient tab lids. Makes it hell to open when you're driving.

But the most noticeable environmental practice is that practiced by the Oregon Division of Highways.

Every couple of miles along major roadways one will see jiffy sacks stuffed with litter collected from roadsides. As a result, one rarely sees a soft drink tin, or any tin for that matter, wrappers and other garbage dropped or hurled by misguided Sandy Koufax's.

Oregon works at staying clean and pristine!

Many teacher negotiating groups in the state are using a sample agreement, as developed by the California Teachers Association, as a starting point in bargaining sessions.

These sample agreements purportedly stress increases in benefits rather than salaries and tries to enlarge the scope of bargaining by expanding definitions. The contract supposedly concentrates on maintaining and increasing the association's rights.

The sample contract is 154 pages long and divided into 37 articles, including negotiation procedures, grievance procedures, professional dues and payroll deductions, teaching hours, leaves, class size, and part time employment with full retirement credit.

Largest section of the contract covers teacher's leaves, basically extending the amount and use of leaves and decreasing management's ability to deny leave.

It is felt the CTA sample agreement reflects increased teacher concern for what negotiators call non - economic issues.

An agreement between the City of Hayward and the United Public Employees, SEIU Local 390, is the basis for a California Supreme Court ruling that an agency shop is illegal in California cities, counties and special districts.

In ruling the agreement unconstitutional, the High Court said the contract called upon the city to collect dues for the union as a term of city employment.

The court ruled that the Meyers - Milias - Brown Act, which governs employee issues, does not authorize an agency shop.

Only jurisdiction in which an agency shop will be legal will be in schools where Senate Bill 160 authorizes this as one of the terms of collective bargaining.

Letters to the Times

Garbage rates

Open Letter To Mayor Of Livermore Mrs. Tirsell:

Proposals nearly to double garbage collection charges in Livermore drew a sharp rebuke from American Taxpayers' Union Local No 115. ATU noted that garbage collection is now a monopoly. The present firm received its contract by bidding lowest in an invitation to bid. It has since sought increased rates to guarantee profits as is done with utilities.

ATU urges the city to take one of two alternative steps:

1) Invite a mutual termination of the present contract; invite bids on a new garbage collection contract. The bid date should be long enough to allow a new firm to organize.

2) Remove the monopoly aspects of garbage collection, allowing any person or firm to perform the service subject to reasonable police regulation.

This recommendation was endorsed at the organization's regular monthly meeting. We request that you bring our position to the attention of your City Council at its public hearing, July 26, 1976.

Vineyard parking

Dear City Staff and Council Members:

I am writing in regards to the decision to prohibit parking on Vineyard Avenue from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. I feel the staff and council should carefully consider the disadvantages before initiating the order to have the no-parking signs put up. The three months study was initiated due to complaints of cars parking on Christina Court not belonging to or visitors of the residents living on the Court and the hazard to residence on the south side of Vineyard Ave. who have to back into traffic. By prohibiting parking on Vineyard Avenue from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. the problem will be escalated and disadvantageous for the following reasons:

1. Workers returning home from work will not be inclined to move their car off of a side street once the 8 p.m. time is up if they have no plans to go out for the evening.

2. The Olympic Games, at least on TV, are being overrun with commercialism.

I fully expect some competitor to come bounding into the arena with "Jose's Taco Delight" stitched on his warmup jacket. Or "grab for all the gusto..."

Past Olympic Games procedure has been to first, win a medal; second, be approached by a commercial sponsor; third, sign a contract for a zillion dollars and a lifetime supply of foot powder or instant coffee or Perfidia shoes.

One can commiserate with those competitors who don't even make the finals. They've blown their big chance!

Ahh, but there's one salvation. Be interviewed by a member of the media.

Good heavens, there's got to be as many pencil and microphone toters running around this place as athletes!

Tried standing near an "athletes and officials, only" entrance yesterday and dam near got interviewed twice.

Will return tomorrow with a gaudy warmup uniform.

"Yes, I'm the only athlete who didn't get called back to Lower Euphoria." "No, I'm not in the 10,000 meter duck waddle."

Maybe if one stands in the same spot long enough the "Brim coffee girl" will come along.

MONTREAL — I've looked high and low but I'll be d----- if I can find any concessions here selling "zee Brim coffee."

You know, the stuff the sweetie on TV is pitching in the hokey French accent.

round the town

It was in that time when presses were fed by hand, and advertising space was sold by editors.

The Valley was comprised of just Livermore and its vineyards, Pleasanton with its sugar beets, and in between the rich promise of gravel. The towns themselves were modest commercial centers, back in the early 1950's.

But the people had a unique sensitivity to the land, to each other, and powerful "hometown pride" in those respective centers.

Maitland Henry typified that pride, and that sensitivity.

He belonged to the old school of newspaper publishers. Those who had been burned by the hot metal, scarred by the black ink, been nicked by a paper cutter, or wounded by an irate advertiser.

We were in truth the Jacks of all trades, masters of none. Reporter and salesman, typesetter and paper folder, uncertain accountant and unwary trouble shooter. That was the nature of the weekly newspaper, in this Valley of the '50's. And that was the Maitland Henry I remember.

His "Livermore Herald" dominated the Livermore market; my "Pleasanton Times" was without challenge in the west end of the Valley. If we were competitors, it was against the right of survival, the common enemy. In truth, neither of us could have survived without the other.

There was that night (real trouble only came at night) when the Herald's press would not function. Would not accept the sheets of newsprint that had to be fed by hand in close timing with the "ka - THUMP, ka - THUMP" of that huge impression cylinder.

The sense of "deadline urgency" was no less for that weekly paper than it is for today's daily schedule. The difference then was the 6 a.m. cutoff imposed by the postmaster, the hour beyond which he would not accept the papers ... for sorting by the carriers ... for guaranteed delivery that Thursday to homes throughout the city and the ranch lands.

We lived and worked against that awful 6 a.m. deadline. This particular Wednesday night, Maitland Henry was faced with the Armageddon of a balky newspaper press.

And so he called down to us, naturally. And we sent up our "pressman," naturally. And then we all stood around anxiously while this young man — of uncertain talents and unknown breeding, as I remember him — fussed and swore and kicked that great brute of a press, until it would accept those sheets of newsprint.

And so it was, at 2 o'clock or 3 o'clock on a Thursday morning, the Herald's press began its weekly chore, the papers were printed — first one side of those sheets and then back through again for the other side — then sliced and folded, by hand, then stuffed and addressed.

All just in time for the postmaster's 6 a.m. deadline.

There were of course those other moments when a seasoned but always kind publisher from Livermore lent assistance or counsel to the young, green publisher at Pleasanton. For it was only in the survival of the other that we could be assured of our own chance at making it.

There came that day when "The Livermore News" suddenly appeared on the Valley scene. A "throwaway" that wooed advertisers with promises of "total coverage." It was a kind of newspaper foreign to the likes of Maitland Henry, and the rough competition, the threats and the merger and the ultimate sale to Hayward interests were, in truth, the end of that era when a man might serve and succeed by dint of his own labor.

Eva and Maitland Henry in Livermore, Lulu and Leon Lester — who preceded me in Pleasanton — these were the hallmark of a weekly newspaper era that can never be repeated, at least not here, not in much of California.

I am not sure I miss all that. The stubborn presses, the 20 - hour days, the endless years without so much as a full week's break.

But I do miss the people. The dedication that sprung from some strange love of the industry, and that was shared by the part - time pressman of uncertain origins, no less than by those who laid claim to such titles as "editor" or "publisher."

At 3 o'clock of a Thursday morning, all of us were just as anxious, just as dirty. And just as triumphant when the big press finally yielded, and our readers were assured their newspaper, for yet another week.

Maitland Henry slipped away this week at the age of 86. He was a devoted husband, a fine citizen, a complete newspaperman. This community is a better place for having known him.

That line

The Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) Board of Directors is to be congratulated, ironically, for what it did not do last week, rather than for what it did.

The directors (representatives of Pleasanton, Livermore and Valley Community Services District) agreed not to amend the joint powers agreement (JPA), a document that has held them together for two years, at least as far as sewage is concerned.

That inaction reaffirmed the voters' right to decide in November whether they will foot the bill — perhaps $7 million locally — for the effluent disposal pipeline project LAVWMA has proposed.

Led by Livermore and VCSD, the directors resisted the temptation toward benevolent despotism. However reluctantly, they cast aside the assumption that as elected officials they know what is best for the valley populace.

It can be argued that the LAVWMA board possesses more technical expertise on the subject of effluent disposal in general and the LAVWMA project in particular than does the average valley resident.

And the board is worried — with good reason — that so costly and unglamorous a project will be rejected by the voters.

Sewage is not a scintillating topic.

But in the shadow of Watergate, the LAVWMA board took the proper, indeed the only course available to them if they want to see the pipeline become a reality.

As one former LAVWMA board member warned, "It's important to take the electorate into your confidence or else public confidence in elected officials will erode."

By deciding not to amend the JPA, the LAVWMA board reaffirmed its trust in the public — or at least acknowledged the voters' unalienable right to a voice in their own future.

So now the voters will have to decide the fate of the pipeline for themselves, and face the consequences of that decision.

Stated briefly, the valley is under a mandate from the state to stop discharging its effluent down the Alameda Creek. People in Fremont don't want to drink our wastes, even if treated, and the state water board has ruled the wastewater is harmful to health.

The urgency for rectifying the situation can be seen easily if the situation is reversed. Doubtless no one here wants to drink Fremont's sewage either.

So the three urban areas of the valley joined together to form LAVWMA, and began looking for ways to solve the problem.

They submitted 14 project alternatives to the State Water Resources Control Board, the agency empowered by the federal government to decide which would be best.

Nine of those alternatives were thrown out by the board, most because they had received considerable prior study and had been deemed unworkable.

LAVWMA was permitted to evaluate the five remaining alternatives:

First: demineralize the effluent and discharge the remaining wastewater into the valley.

Second: extract the salts from effluent stored in large reservoirs. At times of high runoff, discharge the effluent down the Alameda Creek.

Third: send treated sewage by pipeline parallel to the Alameda Creek for discharge into the southern part of the Bay.

Fourth: send treated sewage by pipeline across the Dublin hills to link up with the East Bay Dischargers Authority pipeline for eventual discharge into the San Francisco Bay by the Oakland airport.

Fifth: combine alternatives one and four, using a pipeline to export the wastes at present, adding on demineralization facilities in the future.

The LAVWMA board chose alternative four, and the Environmental Protection Agency and the state concurred in that choice. All agencies agreed that the deficiencies in the other alternatives were of such significance as to render the fourth alternative most acceptable at this time.

It should be noted that alternative five remains a practical possibility for some time in the future. It will be possible to add on the demineralization facilities should that be desired.

The decision is the result of two years of study, work that has built upon years of previous study.

The alternative has been put to the scrutiny of state, federal and LAVWMA - member agencies. It has been examined in two public hearings.

Valley residents may not like the pipeline alternative; some elected officials are not enchanted with it either.

But one fact is irrefutable: the valley must cease discharging its wastes down the creek or face a stiff fine — perhaps $6,000 — for each day such discharging continues.

The LAVWMA board is counting on voters to appreciate the severity of the charge.

"I believe that when something is needed clearly, and is put before the voters clearly, the public will respond," one councilman declared.

LAVWMA directors are gambling that response will be positive; they believe there is no other alternative.

For Wednesday, July 28, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Long shots are not likely to pay off today, but hard work will. Bank on the muscles in your arm, not the spots on the dice.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You tend to overindulge those you love today. This could be a mistake that won't help anyone in the long run.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You may be tempted today to embellish the facts a bit rather than to tell it like it is. No one will believe your tall tales.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You'll wind up disappointed today if you expect too much from friends. Don't put them on the spot by being overly demanding.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Your impulsive generosity could cause you remorse later on. Keep within limits you can afford, not what you think is expected.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Usually you're aware of details. Today, you'll see only the big picture. Re-check all facts and figures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Today is not as gainful as it could have been, because you'll use faulty business judgment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Your Birthday
July 28, 1976
More than the usual share of opportunities will be available to you this year. However, you have a tendency to coast. You may not make of them what you should.

West wasn't proud of his opening bid and saw little chance to beat South's three notrump contract. The only real hope would be to find his partner with the queen of clubs so a club lead was indicated and West led his fifth best — the three spot. He didn't think it would do any harm to fool his partner; it might help a lot to fool declarer.

South ducked the first club, but had to win the second. Then he ran off dummy's five diamonds. West had to make four discards and they gave him no apparent problem. He chucked the eight and four of spades, then the deuce of hearts and finally the deuce of

Hunters prepare for buck season

In the Bag

HERE IS A RUNDOWN on the new deer tag system for 1976:

The early buck season starts August 7 and every hunter should understand the tag system. Failure to use the proper tag after downing that buck could result in the loss of the opportunity to hunt deer in other areas of the state. So be sure and read the instructions in the Hunting Regulations Booklet.

The general (yellow) tag is good for taking one buck only in zones A, B, D or E. Boundaries and seasons for each zone are clearly shown in the hunting booklet, available free wherever hunting licenses are sold.

The option (white) tag may be used either to tag a buck taken only in zones A or B or by a successful applicant for a special deer hunt permit. Successful applicants are required to turn in their option tags along with the $5 permit fee upon being notified that their names have been drawn for a special hunt.

The zone X (purple) tag is valid only for taking one three-point buck in the zone X area in north-eastern California. Persons buying this tag may not purchase either a general or an option tag. Zone X tag holders successful in special hunt drawings will not be required to submit an option tag in order to get their special hunt permits.

YOU MAY BE ONE OF THE LUCKY ONES if you apply for an elk permit this year! The Department of Fish and Game (DFG) will issue information sheets and application cards to be available the latter part of August. Drawings will be held in September. Applications will be available from license agents and regional DFG offices.

JIM LAMB SAYS he and some friends were on a backpacking trip recently in the Saddle Bag Lake area of Yosemite Park. He reports that fishing was fair; hiking was good; and they weren't in a hurry, just enjoying the great out-of-doors.

Highlight of the trip, though, occurred when the group walked around a bend in the trail and came upon a small band of buck deer. All were still in the velvet, and Jim says they sure had big, beautiful fluffy horns.

There were two four-pointers, one a three-pointer, two forks, and one spike. The deer just stood there—not too often that one has the opportunity to get a close look at big bucks in the velvet. Must have been quite a sight!

DON RICHARDSON accompanied his son, Dave, and their Scout Troop on a backpack trip up in the high country around Dodge Ridge, going south into the Twin Lakes area.

Dave reports, "We ran into a beautiful thunderstorm. Just marvelous! I can enjoy a storm like that, especially when we have good rain gear."

They had good fishing at the lake, mostly 14 to 26 inches. They had plenty to eat, then fished some more and threw them back in. Fishing for fun can be more relaxing than fishing for supper!

RICHARD COSBY persuaded his dad to take him fishing at Del Valle the other day. He had soon caught his first trout, a nice one about 12 inches long. He had that for breakfast, and is a confirmed angler now!

PHIL DEPUE, chairman of the "Club Championship Shoot" at Livermore-Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club, reports an exceptional day for the local event.

John Rock, a terrific young shooter, won the High Over-All.

Vic McBride was 1st in Trap, and Sid Roberts was 2nd.

Mike Truitt, 1st in Skeet shooting, with Harvey Van Hueson 2nd.

Bill Stratmann, 1st in Piston; Warren Judd 2nd.

Bill Kusich, 1st in rifle, with Larry Eppeneder 2nd.

Cal Rowe, 1st in Running Deer, and Ed Heikila 2nd.

Don and Shirley Baumann were the husband and wife winners.

Bill and Allen Elsholz were father and son winners.

Charlene Boarts won High Junior and JoAnn Boarts was High Lady.

There was also a Ham and Bacon Shoot for the public, and they walked away with 47 hams.

Burroughs is Jr. net champ

Rick Burroughs of Pleasanton came through with an impressive performance in winning the boys' 18 and under title over Jeff MacKenic, 6-0, 6-1 at the Livermore Tennis Club's Valley Junior Tournament Monday.

The other four title matches were close, fought battles. Vern Cedarland, the top-seeded player, defeated Greg Corallo, 6-4, 6-7, 6-2 for the 16 and under crown and Jeff Silk toppled David Reineking 7-5, 7-5 for the 14 and under title.

Mike Cary pulled an upset in the boys' 12 and under class when he defeated top-seeded David Reynolds, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3.

Mindy Gottesman beat Sylvia Knell, also a top-seed, 7-6, 6-3 in the girls' 14 and under final.

Ron Lapp took the 18 and under consolation championship with a 6-3, 7-5 win over Scott Willford while Rene Meyer toppled Pat Cohan, 6-1, 7-5 for the 16 and under boys' consolation championship.

Big $$ in tourney

The Valley Softball Association will sponsor a 20-team, double elimination tournament Aug. 14-15 at Murray School at Kobe Park.

Entry fee is $55 per team with cash prizes and trophies to the top four finishers. The winning club will receive $110, with $75 for second, $50 for third and $25 for fourth.

The tourney will be an open roster affair with the Livermore Umpires Association handling those chores.

Interested parties may call Hank Lopez, either at work, 934-4481, or at home, 829-5474.

Dublin and San Ramon lost final round games in Allied Brokers Summer Basketball action at Amador High School last night. Dublin fell to Hayward 60-49 and San Ramon lost to a fast-starting Walnut Creek squad 52-42.

The league playoffs, scheduled to start tonight, have been cancelled, according to Pleasanton mentor Tony Costello.

San Ramon, which ended the season with a 3-8 mark, could only score three points in the first period as Walnut Creek swished the nets for 14 markers.

Walnut Creek used a balanced attack to gradually pull away from the Grizzlies. Don Scapp and Jerry Pierson each canned 10 points and John Deighan added eight for the winners.

The losers found the mark more often in the second period, tanking 12 points to eight for the winners. However, a 16-point outburst in the third quarter iced the game for the Spartans. They added 14 points in the final period and San Ramon tanked 17.

Larry Walters swished 12 points for the losers on five field goals and two free throws but no other Grizzly scored in double figures.

Craig Cline of the Grizzlies canned three field goals for six points and played a fine game on defense, grabbing several clutch rebounds and making a couple of steals.

San Ramon coach Bill Herrera was in a somber mood after the contest.

"As far as the whole summer season went I wasn't really that pleased," he admitted. "I thought we did better on defense than on offense. Improvement in defense is something we set as a goal before this season started."

The Grizzlies also showed some hustle against Walnut Creek, making up for their lack of height with a lot of just plan determination.

In the Dublin game the Gaels got off to a fast start, canning 16 first-quarter points to just 11 for Hayward. However, that margin proved to be short lived as the taller Mariners took control of the boards in the second period and rang up 19 points to nine for the losers.

The winners were also sparked by the outstanding all-around play of flashy guard Ed Valdivia, who canned eight field goals for 16 points and high point honors for Hayward.

Jim Grodreau and Ray Pena, two front-liners, added 15 and 10 points respectively for the winners.

The last time the game was tied was at 25-25 with 1:25 left in the second period. Then the Mariners scored five straight points to take a 30-25 advantage into the lockerroom at half-time and gradually built their margin up in the second half.

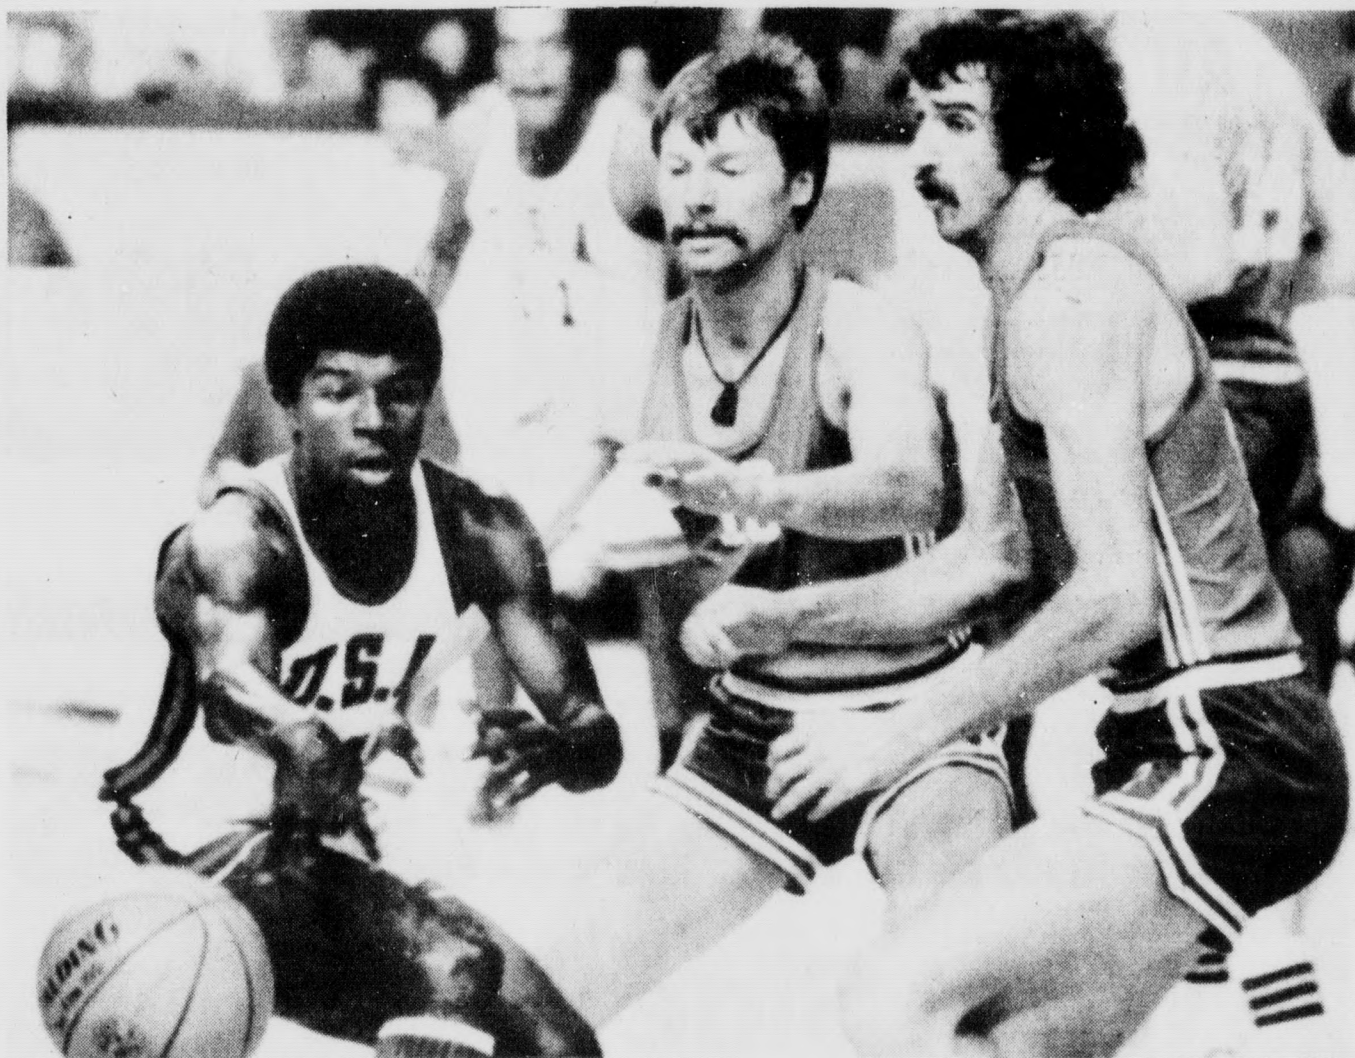

Mark Richmond, another fine all-around player, added nine points for the winners and Tom Smith added eight. Jim Boulware, one of the top all-around prep athletes in the area, led the Gaels with 16 points on seven field goals and two free throws. Mike Harris was the only other Dublin player in double figures as he scored 12 points. Six of his tallies came on free throws.

Both teams shot fairly well in the second half. Hayward, with Valdivia directing the attack, swished the nets for 14 points in the third period for a 44-36 margin at the break. The winners tallied 16 markers in the final period and Dublin scored 13 as both teams traded baskets in the final minutes.

Pleasanton has already clinched the team championship.

Pleasanton out of Sox

North Stockton routed Pleasanton, 11-1, in a District 53 Major League Bobby Sox All-Star softball contest last night at the Recreation Center in Livermore.

Shaunda Garcia of North Stockton hurled an excellent game, striking out 11 and limiting Pleasanton to only two hits. Garcia used pitching scientifics, firing her strong fast ball to set up the unsuspecting Pleasanton batters for a sneaky change-up.

She also smacked two singles and scored two runs. Laura Stubbs paced North Stockton's offensive attack, stroking two hits, including an RBI double.

Lynee Lozano also had two hits, and scored two runs.

Pleasanton's two hits came from the bats of Michelle Benson, who had a double, and Janis Callon, who singled. Callon also turned in a sparkling unassisted double play from her shortstop position, stifling a Stockton rally.

Pleasanton made another double play in the fifth inning, when leftfielder Sherri Britton caught a fly ball and threw to third base, catching a North Stockton runner off guard.

Pleasanton, however, learned that you can't defend hits, as North Stockton rapped out a 13-hit attack and eliminated Pleasanton from further tournament play.

North Stockton played Livermore later last night, but due to the late starting time, the Times was unable to obtain the score.

The winner of that game will play Fairfield tonight at 6 p.m. for the championship.

Valley trio out of NCGA event

DALY CITY — Both local qualifiers were eliminated from the championship flight of the 47th Annual Northern California Golf Association Junior Amateur tournament at Lake Merced Golf and Country Club here yesterday.

Tom Straeter and Carl Richardson, both of Monte Vista High School and members of the North Coast Section champion Mustang team, won their first round matches in the morning, but were beaten decisively in the afternoon's second round.

Richardson beat Fresno's Eric Costa, 1-up, in the morning only to be upset by Roger Lyon of Madera, 6-and-4, in the fog of the afternoon.

Straeter, meanwhile, went to the 21st hole to top Greg Geertsen of the noted Pebble Beach golfing family before falling to pre-tourney favorite Bobby Clappett, of Carmel, 5-and-4.

Mike Allio of Danville, who dropped to the third flight after carding an 82 in Monday's qualifying round, defaulted to Eric Hinkelman of Fair Oaks. Keith Clearwater, the top East Bay Area qualifier, also failed to survive the day's action.

Livermore woman dies

WALNUT CREEK — A 23-year-old woman died late Thursday from injuries she received in a car accident earlier in the evening in the Brentwood area.

Killed was Leonilda Rae Male, 1615 2nd St., Livermore.

According to reports from the California Highway Patrol, she was approaching the intersection of Sellers Avenue and Brentwood Road when she collided with a car driven by Enrique Valladares, 22.

Garbage will cost more

LIVERMORE — The Livermore City Council took the following action at its July 26 meeting:

• Refuse collection rates: approved an increase to $3.85 per can per month $5.55 for two cans per month; $3.35 commercial yard per month. Made optional the twice-weekly summer pickup. New rates go into effect Aug. 1.

• Weed abatement: adopted a resolution overruling objections and confirming report of assessments for filing with County Auditor for collection.

• Sewer service contract: adopted a resolution authorizing execution of sewer service contract for Harold Dhont.

• Livermore Community Recycling Center: authorized staff to select the best possible site on S. Pacific Avenue for relocation of the recycling center.

• Sister City: authorized trip expense for Mayor Helen Tirsell and Mr. Richard Ryon for trip to Livermore's Sister City in Guatemala in accordance with the budget allotment.

• Staff reassignment: adopted a resolution approving job description for an assistant purchasing agent and opening recruitment. Salary will be $1,200 per month.

LARPD sponsors diving classes for kids in August

LIVERMORE — Beginning Aug. 2, the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District will offer a beginning diving class for boys and girls 8 years of age and older or having a beginners swimming certificate.

This class will introduce the fundamentals of diving on the one- and three-meter springboards.

Classes will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 6:30 to 7 p.m. at the Granada Swim Center until Sept. 3.

Registration is now being taken at the Granada Swim Center from 1 to 5 p.m. Fee is $7 for 15 half-hour lessons.

Also being offered to girls 10 years of age and older is synchronized swimming classes designed to introduce basic synchronized swimming skills.

These classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday from 12 noon to 1 p.m., beginning Aug. 3 and continuing through Sept. 2 at May Nissen Swim Center. Fee is $5 for ten one-hour lessons.

Registration is now being taken from 1 to 5 p.m. at May Nissen Swim Center.

A group routine performance for parents and guests will climax the session. Registrations for both classes are limited.
